ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 25, 1916

WHERE THE MEN BALK

Men of all political faiths will endorse this paragraph from the speech of Max Gardner in Raleigh the other night:
"In the shadows of defeat, sunshine or victory, darkness or reconstruction and in the campaign of white supremacy the women of North Carolina stood shoulder to shoulder with the great Democratic party is it struggled for the uplift of our dear mother state. Women have always led in every movement for the betterment of the social, educational and moral development of North Carolina."
But when it comes to giving the women the ballot, the men will repeat the score or more of arguments that have been worn threadbare.

The Catawba County News, which in the course of its report at the speaking in Newton several nights ago, voluntarily reproduced the Record's statement of the facts in connection with what occurred at the North school in Hickory, about which much was made. The News is to be commended for its fairness, and it has won friends in Hickory, where the schools are put above politics by the greater majority of people.

The Hon. Marion Butler has appeared in Sampson county, the Raleigh News and Observer learns, or is about to appear there. We doubt this. Mr. Butler knows that his presence in North Carolina will make everybody sore except those who swear by him and the Democrats, who are never so happy as when he is in politics. He is worth many hundreds of votes to the Democratic party in eastern North Carolina.

We shall vote for President Wilson with a great deal of pleasure because of the beneficent legislation passed under his direction, and in site of his handling the Mexican situation and the negotiations with foreign powers. We are with Roosevelt on the foreign business, but are not with Hughes, by a whole lot—because we do not know where we stand.

North Carolina is second to Massachusetts in the number of cotton spindles in operation, but the difference is greater than the figures indicate. Massachusetts mills make the finer grades, which up to a few years ago southern textile plants did not attempt. We are catching up however, and in less than a decade will be leading the world.

If anybody imagines that wheat farmers in this section have sold their grain, he might ask the millers. Nobody watches the market reports with keener eyes than the man with grain or cotton to sell, and as a result there is quite a bit of wheat stored up in Catawba awaiting the time when it will bring $1.80 a bushel here.

The Asheville Citizen was 33 years old Sunday and it made the day memorable with an especially large paper. Elder Caine knows how to conduct a newspaper and his handling of the Citizen for the past 13 years has not been unlucky for him, the paper of the town. More years of usefulness to all.

Our readers will note that the Record is carrying dispatches from various cities noting the high price of cotton, but the Hickory market remains from 1-8 to 1-4 higher than all other exchanges in the south.

The American people appreciate the fact that President Wilson kept the country out of war, and that accounts for a great deal of the enthusiasm throughout the middle west.

The Asheville Times made its debut Sunday as a seven-day-a-week paper, and what is more, came out with 52 pages, rivaling metropolitan sheets in size and appearance. That was going some for Asheville.

It begins to look as if Villa will get the upper hand in Mexico, after all. But then the Mexicans have a right, we are told, to scrap just as much as they want to, and they are not injuring anybody around here.

This is the sixth presidential campaign in which Mr. Bryan has taken a big part—and it is hard to realize that he has been in the limelight so long. Mr. Bryan is not a statesman, but he is a good man and loyal to his friends.

Candidate Hanly is not partial in his remarks about the two presidential candidates of the major parties. When he slaps Hughes on one side of the cheek, he feels that he must smite Wilson on his.

If much campaign fire could be gained out of the rottenness of the other side, Pennsylvania would be Democratic by about 197,321 majority.

The Record will obtain the same reports of the election that the larger papers of the state will receive. And that is because we are willing to pay for the service.

The German submarine U-53 may have been sunk by the British, but we have received most of our training in St. Joe, Mo.

Bethlehem Steel has not been as quiet as its name might imply, and has been leading United States Steel a chase.

When it comes to knocking, what is the matter with P. P. Jones and Company?
